

Dirty History

An Interdisciplinary Workshop in Agriculture, Environment, and Capitalism at the University of Georgia

“The Extra Hazardous Business of Being a Baby’: Infant Care and Feeding in the Gilded Age and Progressive Era”

Lara Vapnek, Professor, St. John’s College
September 30 2022 @ 3:30pm

“Seedtime and Harvest’: Georgia’s Fertilizer Industry and the Making of the New South”

Andrew Craig, PhD student, University of Georgia
October 14, 2022 @ 3:30pm

“Carceral Workscapes in the Variety Vacationland: Incarcerated Labor, Good Roads, and early 20th-Century Nature Tourism in North Carolina”

Elizabeth Hargret, PhD student, University of California -Berkeley
November 4, 2022 @ 3:30pm

“They perceived us before we did them’: Pacific Whaling Grounds as Workscapes”

Shaw Bridges, PhD student, University of Georgia
December 2, 2022 @ 3:30pm

“Saltwater Marronage: Blubbery Circuits of Freedom in the Age of Revolution”

Jeremy Zallen, Associate Professor, Lafayette College
January 27, 2023 @ 3:30pm

“Impulse and Consequence: The Commodity Credit Corporation and The Rise of Agribusiness in the Cotton South”

Robert Ferguson, PhD student, University of Georgia
February 17, 2023 @ 3:30pm

Book Talk -- The Long Land War: The Global Struggle for Occupancy Rights (Yale University Press, 2022).

Jo Guldi, Associate Professor, Southern Methodist University
March 17, 2023 @ 3:30pm

“Fertilizing the Green De/Revolution: Japan, the US, and Cold War Asia”

Hiromi Mizuno, Associate Professor, University of Minnesota
April 14, 2023 @ 3:30pm

For more information, visit www.Dirty-History.org

Sponsored by The UGA Department of History, the B. Phinizy Spalding Professor, and the Willson Center of Humanities & Arts